WEEKLY BAZOO

SEDALIA, MO.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1893.

A NEW FEATURE.

How You Proposed to Your Wife or How Your Husband Offered His Hand.

THE BAZOO is well aware that there is plenty of romance connected with matrimony. To draw it out for the columns of a newspaper, THE BAZOO has concluded to offer an elegant armed easy chair to the lady or gentleman who will write the best incident which is connected with their engagement as to how the gentleman offered his hand in matrimony. The lady has the same opportunity to write as the gentleman and the one who furnishes the best, be it new or old, or otherwise—all will be taken into consideration in rendering a decision as to its merits. The decision will be made by a committee.

The articles will all be published in THE BAZOO and must not be over 500 words in length. The old boys and old girls of central Missouri—put on your thinking caps and see who can get the chair, for it will be a nice one. Send your manuscript in a sealed letter, addressed, "Prize Editor BAZOO, Sedalia, Mo.," giving your real name, which will not be published with the story, but be retained exclusively with the "prize editor." There must be at least six different articles by six different writers.

The contest will close April 30, 1893.

When a mob began rioting in Bogota the Governor at once sent the military to quell it, and quell it they did. In Texas the authorities encouraged a mob, despite the governor, and the consequence is a pall of shame hangs upon Texas' fair name.

And now there comes adown the way,
The man with wisdom filled,
And with ta-ra-ra boom-de-aye—
Declares the peach crop's killed.

The second issue of the Enterprise-Sentinel, Van B. Wisker & Son's new venture, is before us, and it is with a sincere interest that the BAZOO commends it. It is a bright and newsy journal and cannot fail to be popular with all classes.

Mrs. Lease will lecture in Sedalia at Wood's Opera House, Wednesday, February 8. This lady has national reputation, and as a political manipulator, she has no peer on the rostrums of the world, and Sedalians, both ladies and gentlemen, cannot afford to miss her.

As will be seen in another column, the ground-hog edition "caught on" and the BAZOO manager herewith returns thanks for the many kindly words of approbation which his brethren of the press have so kindly published. The BAZOO has never shirked its duty to Sedalia, and it is always glad to know that its efforts are appreciated.

A Sedalia (Mo.) minister, finding that the children of this world profit by judicious investments in printer's ink, has hung cards in the hotels and other public places advertising his church and its special attractions:

Good music and short sermons.—St. Louis Chronicle.

This is business. When "good music and short sermons" confronts "fine drinks and a hearty welcome" the devil is being beaten with his own weapons.

"Bald-heads to the front," is the significant card hung on the outer wall for Tuesday the 7th inst. Brothers Emerson and Hall, our esteemed contemporaries, must go early and stay late. If the apparel of the girls is a little gauzy or abbreviated, remember that you are in the wild and woolly west and while you are there you must do as you please—everybody else does. THE BAZOO will pray for these two brothers and all good people will be kind to them.

In a brief notice in the local columns it will be seen that Mr. J. J. Yeater, having resigned his position as a director of the Citizens' National bank, Mr. S. P. Johns, Sr., has been elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Johns is one of the most respected and successful business men in the city and his election as a director in the Citizens' National will give that already well known and prosperous bank an additional strength which will place it in the front rank of solid and substantial banking institutions in the state.

As will be seen in another column, Mrs. Mary Lease will lecture in this city Wednesday, February 8. Mrs. Lease will talk of "Ireland and her people", and as she is one of the best talkers in the country there is no doubt that she will not only entertain, but instruct all who hear her. As a figure in Kansas politics she has made a reputation which is as far reaching as the globe, and as a talker with something to say, she has loosened more arms at the socket than all the surgeons of the late war. Mrs. Mary is an unique production and her ability is unquestioned. The BAZOO would especially recommend her lecture to its Irish friends.

Thomas H. Frame, for the past two years connected with the BAZOO, has taken editorial charge of the Cooper County Democrat, published at Boonville. He is a thoroughly competent person for the place and will doubtless prove himself a capital card for his employees. He has had many years experience on some of the best papers in the state and is familiar with public men and measures in Missouri. He makes friends wherever he goes, and, like David Bennett Hill, he can conscientiously assert—"I am a democrat." We commend Mr. Frame and his excellent family to the kindly consideration of the people of Boonville.

Referring to the Texas horror the Marshall Democrat says:

As the offense was so slight and the mobbed wretch "a poor black man" it is now in order for Fred Douglas, the republican press, and the M. E. church to froth at the mouth and pass resolutions denouncing their betters for oppressing the negro.

The above is an insult to thousands of law abiding people. The BAZOO is a democratic journal, it believes in its principles, it believes in upholding everything which uplifts and benefits mankind, it believes that Thomas Jefferson was the advocate of a creed not only good for men to live by, but for men to die by, but it can see no sense in making political capital out of the acts of a mob and it would not be doing its duty to the people did it not denounce such atrocious, nay such a fiendish act as that which occurred in Texas. The Methodist Episcopal church holds many hundreds of good democrats, but they do not put their democracy before the Son of God and they do not believe that an "eye for eye and a tooth for a tooth policy" is better than His teachings. No man worthy of the name could think of the "offense" which the negro committed, without heart throbs of indignation and loathing, but no man worthy of the name could look upon the father of, even a little dead child, with red hot irons burning the eyes out of a wretch who could not escape his torture, without shuddering horror. Savage warfare never furnished the world such a sight and the BAZOO believes that neither democracy nor republicanism is paramount to that which belongs to our culture, our enlightenment and blessed be God, our Christianity.

Will Appoint a Receiver.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4.—Comptroller Hepburn will probably appoint within a few days a receiver for the Capital National bank of Lincoln, Nebraska. The affairs of the bank are in a very bad shape and the state, it is said, has some $225,000 locked up in it. President Mosher, according to the evidence in the hands of Comptroller Hepburn, wrecked the bank. Some parties on the outside are said to be implicated with him.

—Fulton has a fresh cure from Dwight, Illinois. His name is Oscar Wilkerson and now whenever he passes a gin mill he vomits.

—The Fulton Telegraph wants the legislature to pass an act to tax old bachelors to support old maids, and then Brother Hook will be happy.

Written for the Sunday Morning BAZOO. THE SCRAP PILE.

In the rolling mill's old scrap pile,
Voices there I thought I heard,
And I stopped my steps to listen,
And, perchance, to catch a word.
There I saw a worn out spindle
From an old-time spinning wheel,
And a stirrup from a saddle,
And an old scythe—partly steel.

Saw an ancient iron hayfork,
And a shaft from modern mow's,
Boiler plate from blown-up steamboat,
Busty latch from kitchen door,
Broken frame from locomotive,
Broken axle from a car,
Worn out gear from press of printer,
Lightning rod of iron bar.

Now, they talked: I knew the spindle
By its humming, whizzing noise,
And it said: "I hummed in concert
With a sweet soprano voice,
When the wheel propelling treadle
Was propelled by pretty feet,
And the flax was drawn from distaff
By a maiden's fingers neat."

Then, I caught the stirrup saying:
"Once I had a silver coat,
And my owner kept me polished,
Did to me much time devote;
His gray horse and saddle trappings
Were the cleanest of the clean
When he went to see his lady
Where the cottage door was green."

Then, the latch said: "I remember
How his own peculiar knock
Gave the maiden, who was spinning,
Just a pleasant little shock;
How her pretty, shapely fingers
Lifted me from out the catch,
How he drew her close beside him
And a greeting kiss did snatch."

"Yes," up spoke the listening spindle,
"I, my humming had to cease,
I was thrust into a corner
Where I had to hold my peace;
But, my single eye was wand'ring,
Half obscured by linen thread,
Yet, I saw their spoony cooing
While I heard the words they said."

Then the boiler plate's sad story,
Told in accents piercing shrill,
Through my system sent a shiver,
And my nerves do vibrate still;
And the frame of locomotive
And the axle lying there
Told a tale of end collision
Tale of anguish and despair.

Next the gear from press for printing
Said unto the lightning rod;
"Working printer was my father;
At type-setting he did plod;
And the press that he did work at
Was a thing both small and slow,
As compared with press most modern
Where the folded papers flow."

Then the lightning rod quick speaking,
Said: "My sole inventor, Ben,
Paved the way for 'lectric science
For the works of later men;
Showed men how to lead the lightning
In the path they'd have it walk;
Now 'tis used for light and power
And to reproduce men's talk."

"I was placed on church high steeple,
Running down close by the bell;
Church that taught, by God's ordaining,
Sweetest infants roared in hell,
But, if smallest spray of water
Be applied by preacher's hand,
Little souls will rise triumphant
To the happy, angel land."

In that pile were fractured pieces,
More than I could tell, by half;
And they ranged through years a hundred
Down to talking phonograph;
And they seemed to be uneasy
While my soul, their talk, did drink;
Now, I half believe with Edison,
Universe's atoms think.

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Judge Lynch.

The horrors of the incident at Paris, Tex., are so vivid and peculiar as to demand comment. From first to last the episode is one to make the human mind revolt in wonder that such things can be. It was a fiendish crime punished in a spirit of fiendish vengeance.

The affair was not an act of individual revenge. The entire population of the surrounding district participated, the schools were closed by a proclamation of the mayor, business was suspended, the railroad companies lent their assistance, and almost the entire county turned out en masse, with the deliberate intention of promoting a performance beside which the terrors of the inquisition seem mild pleasantries. Instead of saving their prisoner to be dealt with by the law, the authorities willingly turned him over to the mob.

There are many who will say that the barbarous punishment was thoroughly deserved. But even these on second thought must admit that the mob which dealt with the ruffian degraded and fouled itself by its conduct. The act of torture must react upon the torturers, degrading and debasing every one participating in it. The infliction of suffering is absurdly useless; it does not satisfy the demands of justice; it cannot, in a case like this, be adequate to the desires for revenge.

The vengeance taken by the Paris crowd is to be condemned in the severest terms. The spectacle is one that debases humanity and casts an ineffaceable stain upon the reputation of Texas.

WHAT THEY SAY.

PROFUSELY ILLUSTRATED.

The Sedalia BAZOO issued a ground-hog edition last Sunday, which was profusely illustrated.—California Democrat.

UNIQUE ISSUE.

The Sedalia BAZOO's ground-hog issue was unique and enough of variety to nullify the weather prophets.—Missouri Enterprise.

MISSED CONSIDERABLE.

The Sedalia BAZOO turned out a Ground-Hog edition last Sunday, and the old fellow missed considerable if he did not see the paper.—Warsaw Times.

A CURIOSITY.

The Sedalia BAZOO's ground-hog edition was quite a curiosity and was greatly sought after by the reading public. The BAZOO is published for the people now on earth.—Mexico Ledger.

AHEAD OF TIME.

The Sedalia BAZOO issued a big ground-hog edition last Sunday. It was bound not to be behind time. The ground-hog didn't think of coming out until to-day.—California Democrat.

ALL BRIGHTNESS.

The ground-hog edition of the Sedalia BAZOO came out, but it cast no shadow, for all was brightness. Missouri and Kansas talent joined in brightening the issue.—Kansas City Star.

A STEM WINDER.

The ground-hog edition of the BAZOO last Sunday was a regulation stem-winder and no mistake. It consisted of sixteen pages, containing a large and varied stock of observations relating to the interesting little animal. Windsor Review.

WHOLE HOG OR NONE.

The Sedalia BAZOO came to us last Sunday morning, in the shape of a neat 16-page ground-hog edition, when Bro. Goodwin undertakes to do a thing, he don't stop half way, but goes through with it whole hog or none.—Otterville Call.

ALWAYS LEADS.

The Sedalia BAZOO, issued a mammoth edition of that favorite paper Sunday, devoted to a review of the business interests of Sedalia. The BAZOO always leads and is the first paper on record to issue a ground-hog edition.—Sweet Springs Herald.

SOLID WORK.

The "ground-hog edition" of the Sedalia BAZOO is before us. It is a handsome and entertaining production, given as an outpost in history from which the wonderful progress of Sedalia may be viewed. The BAZOO is doing much solid work for Sedalia.—Versailles Leader.

BROKE THE RECORD.

The Sedalia BAZOO broke the record last Sunday morning and issued a handsome ground-hog edition. It was a streak of enterprise, was well received by the people, but his hog-ship was so heart-broken over the event, he remained in his hole, and we may now look for an early spring.—Richmond Conservator.

ORIGINAL FEATURES.

"Original features" are quite the fad with some newspapers, but none of them can hope to excel the Sedalia BAZOO, which on Sunday last issued a "ground-hog" edition. The subject is certainly a peculiar one, but the inimitable Goodwin worked it for all that was possible, making it a theme for poetry, pathos and philosophy.—Tipton Times.

THE PRODUCTION EXCELLENT.

The Sedalia BAZOO issued a ground-hog edition Sunday. It was remarkable for the amount of meat it contained. Especially conspicuous were the portraits of a gigantic cat, a mammoth hog and Deacon Dinwiddie. The write-up of Sedalia was good and the general character of the unique production excellent.—Columbia Herald.

BRILLIANT EFFORT.

The "ground-hog edition" of the BAZOO issued last Sunday was simply immense. It may not have been crammed with choice literary productions, but it will possibly suit a great many of the people now on earth, and is illustrative of the fact that Sedalia's newspaper men have some enterprise. We congratulate Deacon Dinwiddie on this his latest brilliant effort.—Enterprise-Sentinel.

SUCCESS BEYOND DOUBT.

The ground-hog edition of the Sedalia BAZOO came out on time, according to promise, last Sunday morning, and afforded excellent reading. When a newspaper is made up of contributions from the pens of such bright and racy writers as Will Baumgartner and George W. Ferrell, and is fortunate enough to have communications from such men as "Deacon Dinwiddie," its success is beyond doubt or questioning.—Boonville Advertiser.

WORTHY OF PRAISE.

The Sedalia BAZOO's ground-hog edition, Sunday, was a daisy, and in
